

The Yeager Family

“This is the best thing that could have happened to us”, says Emily Yeager. She and her daughter Dylan Rose (age 4) couldn’t be more excited about their Habitat home. Their new home will be perched on a hillside overlooking Kittredge. “Dylan thinks she’s moving to the snowy mountains!”

Emily has been living paycheck to paycheck for years now. Finding a place they could afford to live has been an ongoing challenge. They lived with Emily’s mom for some time to save money but it’s still been a struggle. There is very little left over after paying her rent, and they have moved often trying to find an affordable rental. Emily is excited that Dylan will soon start in a school where she will have stability and keep the same friends.

Emily enjoys her job at Home Depot working at the contractor’s services desk. In fact, she heard about Habitat when the Habitat construction supervisor came in to purchase items. Emily is moving into the Home Depot contract supervisor program this year and hopes to eventually obtain a supervisor position.

Emily’s home is slated to begin in late spring of 2011, but she has already made great progress on her 250 sweat equity hours. She says she has really enjoyed going to the current worksite and working with Tammy, whose home will be completed just before Emily’s begins. Emily has also put in hours with special events, the ReStore and the office.

“We are so looking forward to having a home and are so grateful to everyone who is helping to make it possible.”
